HERITAGE SHED RESTORATION

Restoring the market you know and love

We're onto the final stage of the $30 million restoration of the market's iconic open-air sheds.

Ten of the market's 12 historic sheds have already been restored over four stages, securing them as the unique backdrop of the market experience.

The final stage of the project involves the restoration of Sheds H and I. Shed H is the oldest of all the market sheds, believed to date back to the 1850s or 1860s and has a different truss design.

During the shed restoration and to facilitate upcoming market infrastructure works, some fruit, vegetable and organics traders from Sheds H and I will be temporarily located across Queen Street in Sheds C and D. They will remain in this location for approximately three years, while Sheds H and I are utilised for the works nearby.

Follow signage in place to help navigate the market and find your favourite traders.

The works are authorised under Heritage Victoria Permit Number P318866.

Stage 5 works:

Sheds H and I restoration

From January until mid-2023, onsite works will be undertaken to restore Sheds H and I.

Works include:

- Repair and strengthening of structural elements such as trusses
- Repair of timber elements
- Repair of verandahs
- Painting
- New insulated roofing to improve the temperature under the sheds
- Upgrade of common area services, including power and lighting
- Electricity and water to be relocated through service bollards

Although there are some changes to how you move around the market, all shops and stalls remain open for business.

Thank you for your patience as we undertake these important restoration works.
